OPINION AND COMMENT

The President's Report for 1915, together with the reports of all the officers of the University, comprising 114 octavo pages of matter relating to the University, and by all odds the most helpful publication issued by the University in furnishing the alumni an intimate view of its activities, came from the press on January 10. Reprints of the individual reports of the President and the Director of the Bureau of Extension are being mailed to all readers of THE REVIEW and copies of the full report will be mailed to alumni who express their desire for them.

Four impressions which the reading of the various reports of the president and officers conveys are worthy of special note. They are:

IMPRESSIONS (1) That the University is experiencing a remarkable growth in all of its departments and activities; (2) That the administrative work of the University is becoming more and more systematically organized; (3) That a splendid spirit of co-operation permeates the faculty and student body in realizing the institution's ideals; and (4) That a new and deeper loyalty to the University is daily being evidenced by students, alumni, and the State at large.

Beginning with the freshman class, 307 students were enrolled during the fall of 1915, while the registration in the Graduate School reached 84. In 1914 the total number of men working for advanced degrees was only 61. The grand total of all students enrolled during the year was 1882. They were distributed as follows: Regular session 1123; Summer School 731; Correspondence division 28. In March and April, 1915, 250 schools having membership in the Debating Union, contested in the presence of from 60,000 to 75,000 people for the Aycock Memorial Cup, and on December 22nd 300 schools had entered for the approaching contest in April, 1916. On December 31 the Library contained 76,250 volumes, and was regularly receiving 700 periodicals and transactions of learned societies, not including the many North Carolina weekly papers sent to its reading room. At Swain Hall 285,053 meals at 13½ cents per meal were served during the first year of its operation, and by means of the Inaugural and Alumni luncheons served in it the fact was established that hereafter events calling for the serving of 500 or 600 persons at a time can easily be provided for. With the completion of Emerson Field, the University came into the possession of an athletic field and equipment equaled by few institutions in the South. By means of contests in track athletics, baseball, basketball, and football, the University has greatly stimulated an interest among the students of North Carolina secondary schools in physical development. While no new buildings were erected on the campus during the year, the financial support for maintenance was increased $20,000 by the General Assembly, and the value of the University property reached the total of $1,154,025.78.

To the business man in the up-to-date business establishment, in which time cards are punched by every employee, where every department has a complete equipment of filing cabinets, typewriters, office furniture, etc., and where through house telephones the details of the work of every employee can be known by the superintendent within a moment, the internal organization of the University may seem far from perfect. Nevertheless, very definite progress in the direction of a more thorough business organization within the University has been made during the year. In the Business Manager's office thorough up-to-date records concerning every activity of the physical plant are filed daily. Information, for example, concerning the number of meals served at Swain Hall for breakfast on a given day and their cost, is always available. Similarly another set of records shows accurately the number of gallons of water pumped into the standpipe each hour of the day, together with the pounds of coal consumed in the power plant in the operation, and the number of gallons of water each pound of coal turns into steam.

In a less detailed way, a notable organization has been perfected during the year in the Registrar's office, the School of Education, the Bureau of Extension, and the Department of English, and definite systematic work has been started on the Alumni Catalogue. Not all the office equipment and clerical assistance needed in any one department has by any means been secured. As a matter of fact, these things at present constitute one of the University's most serious lacks, but the work of the departments mentioned has been greatly facilitated, and throughout the entire University the machinery is being so organized as to meet as effectively as possible the rapidly enlarging work of the institution. The University clearly realizes that nothing but the best methods can be employed by it if it is to meet satisfactorily the large task of service laid upon it, and it is preparing itself to meet the new demands in a thoroughly efficient, business-like way.

Reference has frequently been made in THE REVIEW to the many campus enterprises in which faculty, student body, and town have taken part. Rally Day, the Moonlight School Campaign, to mention only two campus activities, splendidly illustrate the sort of co-operation which has become the rule on the Hill. Out in the State, the alumni in addition to the support they have given to athletics, have assumed in many instances their share of responsibility in furthering the University's work. Throughout all the reports reference to this spirit constantly recurs and the impression deepens that much of the best achievement of the University is directly attributable to it.

That this spirit has extended also beyond the campus to the State at large, and that an increasing interest in the University is growing throughout the State, is also evident. With this thought in mind, President Graham concludes his report to the trustees in the following words:

It is with a profound sense of happiness that I report the conviction, fortified in many substantial ways, that the alumni, the students, and the public at large are taking a more continuous and sympathetic interest in the serious work of the University. Loyalty to the institution is losing none of the enthusiasm that finds its occasional magnetic center in great athletic contests; but it is steadily receiving also a far deeper and richer interpretation. There have been, during the past year, many inspiring evidences that we are coming more and more to see that true loyalty to the University consists not merely in pride in the institution, nor merely in love for it as our alma mater; but also, and mainly, in our personal devotion to the high things for which the institution stands, and our practical service in making these things prevail. This devotion we share with all good men everywhere, whose aim and ideals are kindred, and with every agency that seeks to make them effective in the life of the State. The essential character of the institution is co-operation in its fullest and deepest sense. It is the institution for expressing in intelligent and constructive terms all of those varied aspects of human effort that make complete and unified the life of the State. Adequate equipment, therefore, to do its work with freedom and vigor it asks not in any selfish measure, but as the heart of the general good. If we view it in the lesser way of partisanship, whether friendly or unfriendly, we shall think too lightly of its mission, misconceive its true character and potential greatness, and so fail to give it the means to perform its function with the strength, the vision, and the confident faith necessary to the leadership committed to its care.

Two other features of the reports afford satisfaction of a genuine sort. The University's part in the development of the system of State high schools and the splendid work of the Y. M. C. A. on the campus today are things of which every alumnus can well be proud. In 1907 Prof. N. W. Walker, Professor of Secondary Education in the University, and State High School Inspector, assisted in drafting the acts which brought into being the present system of State-supported high schools. Since then he has devoted more than half his time to the inspection and supervision of the schools, and in his official summary for the biennium 1913-'15, shows that on June 30, 1915, there were 214 of these schools in the State with a total enrollment of 8,986 students. Eighty-seven of these were four-year high schools with 4,979 pupils. The total expenditure for the maintenance of these was $196,545.65 in 1913, and $247,253.59 in 1915. During the past two years fifty State high school buildings have been erected, costing in round numbers, with the equipment added, about $700,000. Along with the high schools the farm life school movement has been stressed with the result that agricultural instruction is now given in 50 or more schools and special agricultural departments meeting the requirements of the farm-life school law have been established and equipped in 19.

Nor has attention been centered merely upon the physical and financial support of these schools. Professor Walker has constantly assisted in the improvement of standards of teaching, has edited for the use of principals and teachers the High School Bulletin published by the University, and through the Summer School and the School of Education, has aided greatly in the professional training of those who in large measure have taken charge of the schools. The University, in these and other ways, has given every aid possible to the perfection of the system, and rejoices that so much has been accomplished for the North Carolina high school boys and girls.

Thrice-repeated and merited commendation is bestowed in the report of the President, the Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, and the Director of the Bureau of Extension, on the Y. M. C. A., a summary of whose many activities appears elsewhere in this number of THE REVIEW. In other days the Societies, the Senior Class, the Student Council, or some other organization, may have been entitled to the first place in student leadership on the campus. That honor today unquestionably belongs to the Y. M. C. A. Its power for good on the campus is generally recognized, and it is doing for the University a work that no other organization can do. In view of this fact, it deserves more liberal support at the hands of the University and alumni, and a new Y. M. C. A. house, costing not less than $50,000, should be one of the buildings planned for in the very near future.

In May, 1914, THE REVIEW went at some length into the matter of University finances, especially in so far as it concerned the salaries of the teaching staff and the physical equipment which the University could place at the disposal of its instructors. At that time THE REVIEW was thoroughly convinced that this constituted one of the biggest problems which the University has to face. It is still of this opinion. Every alumnus who has considered the matter even superficially, is interested in it, and will doubly welcome President Graham's discussion of it in the following paragraphs entitled, in his report, "Our Chief Concern":

We cannot lay too much emphasis on the fact that as administrators of the welfare of the University, our chief concern is to conserve and steadily to increase the strength of the faculty. Every change made in the staff, however small the position affected, and however temporary the change, is important, because it is a change in the fundamental source of the institution's vitality. It means a gain or a loss at the heart of its life. The work of a university has no worth except as its faculty are workers of worth. Although the ability, energy, and ideals of the members of a faculty vary as they do in the members of any other profession, and although, in spite of this variation, uniformity of salary in the various grades is essential, it is no less essential that men of unusual distinction be recognized and encouraged, and rewarded in every possible way by the faculty and the governing board. No price is too great to pay for the services of a great teacher, and no democratic commonwealth is rich enough in men or poor enough in means to part with a great teacher at any price. North Carolina has in the past decade given to half a dozen other states some of their foremost teachers and educational leaders. To let such men go as a deliberate contribution to the development of other states would be a form of spiritual generosity worthy of some praise; but to let them go because of a small difference in salary is the most foolish of all possible public extravagances.

It is not that the difference of a few hundred dollars determines where a professor will do his work. For every man that accepted a call to work with a higher salary elsewhere, three have refused such calls. The clear fact of importance is that the quality of the faculty of an institution will eventually be determined by the salaries it pays. The quality of the new men it can get is, in the main, fixed by the same consideration. It is absolutely necessary that we have largely increased funds to increase the general scale of the faculty salaries, and to increase the maximum for the highest grade, in order to approach fairly the salary average of institutions of equal rank, and to enable our professors under higher cost levels to live with tolerable freedom. The faculty and the trustees should require, with jealousy and impartial care, that service of distinction (varying in quality or degree in the different grades) be rendered always as a basis for promotion; but where such service is rendered the healthful development of the institution demands that it be assured certain and generous recognition. This service of distinction by the faculty is the source of absolutely all of the virtue in the work that the University does, and no institutional activity, and no superficiality of college life, however attractive, should obscure this central and fundamental truth.

The next three or four months are to be extremely busy ones for the University. Three hundred debates in as many communities in the State are to be held and the final contest is to be carried through here. Interscholastic meets in basketball, baseball, tennis, and track are also scheduled for high schools and the winners are to try for honors on the campus.

CAN YOU BE DEPENDENT ON?

Members of the faculty will fill no less than one hundred appointments at school commencements and other public meetings. The Glee and Dramatic clubs will go on their spring tours, and the Bureau of Extension will be pushing its work of serving the State through all of its organized departments. The work for students in the Summer School has already begun, and the student body in September should be greater than it has ever been before.

Here is an opportunity for alumni support. To help in arranging the details of the local events, whether in debate or athletics, to assist the University in making helpful connection with the local community, to interest prospective students in the University—all of this will be extremely helpful to your alma mater. THE REVIEW asks the direct question: Can you be depended on to take a definite part in this work? Your help is greatly needed and will be warmly appreciated.

An extremely interesting exhibit could be given at the Library, if the University were so minded, of instances in the line of publications in which Carolina has led other Southern institutions. The High School Bulletin would constitute exhibit A. Georgia, Alabama, and Illinois, to mention a state not Southern, have followed in the order named with a similar publication, and last week Virginia followed with volume one, number one of a publication so nearly like the University's that Professor Walker could scarcely distinguish which was the old and which was the new. Since Secretary Rankin started the machinery of the Debating Union, South Carolina, Florida, Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee have fallen in line, and their publications could be placed in Exhibit B together with the original bulletin on "Woman Suffrage." Exhibit C has to do with the Bureau of Extension publications. South Carolina got under way last year and sent a delegate to the first meeting of the National University Extension Association and did almost all but adopt Carolina's motto, "Write to the University when you need help," in its first Extension Series. And now comes Virginia with Extension Series, volume one, number one, along the lines of Bulletin number six in Carolina's series. Fourth and last exhibit—Exhibit D—comprises a collection of popular alumni periodicals beginning with THE ALUMNI REVIEW in October, 1912, and running in order through the Alcalde, of Texas, the Virginia Alumni News, down through the Vanderbilt Alumnus which made its first appearance in October of this year. The News Letter must not be forgotten—Exhibit E. Clemson and the A. and M. of North Carolina have followed in hot pursuit, but with no hope of ever catching up with their sprightly predecessor!

The class of 1915 at Vanderbilt University from all departments numbered two hundred men. Last spring these men met just before saying farewell to the University and talked over what Vanderbilt had meant to them and what they hoped to mean to Vanderbilt. They determined to interpret their loyalty in terms of service. Then one hundred and fifty of them sealed the bond of fealty by agreeing to pay to the class secretary $100 each toward the endowment of Vanderbilt. $5.00 was to be paid the first year, $5 the second, and $10 each succeeding year till the whole was paid. This one class therefore will turn over to the university the sum of $15,000.

What, as you look back on it, most vividly remains with you from the college teaching you had? The president of one of the leading universities recently reported these five reasons for poor teaching in college: "too few instructors are interested in education; too great absorption in specialization; teachers are careless as to the manners, speech, conduct, sense of proportion of students; a bad tradition that prevents inspection of work of young teachers; a mischievous notion that a man who is master of his subject is thereby of necessity a good teacher." He recommends "supervision of the work of inexperienced teachers; that mere lecturing should not be tolerated, much less mere droning; that preliminary and introductory explanations should be made to show students the purpose and method of a course; that the psychological and not the logical order be followed in presenting matter to students."

What was the most impressively helpful thing you got in the college classroom? Write us a hundred words or so about it.

CAROLINA MEN RECEIVE SCHOLARSHIPS

Announcement was recently made by the Divinity School of Harvard University that scholarships had been awarded to W. C. Furr, '15, and D. L. Rights, '13, for the coming year. The scholarships represent $300 and $350 respectively.

THE Y. M. C. A. AT WORK

Every Department is Actively Engaged in Constructive Work in the Upbuilding of the Campus and Community

To perfect an organization so that it can continue without the organizer is the highest type of success. This Frank Graham achieved, and when he went to New York he left behind him the most efficient and capable cabinet of many years to carry on the work of the Y. M. C. A. for the year 1915-16.

Work Started Early

A good number of the cabinet members received great inspiration at Blue Ridge. The memories of those "mountain top experiences" had not dimmed before Lee Edwards had, through the Freshman Continuation Committee, written a personal letter to every high school student who had signified his intention of entering the University in the fall. These assurances of welcome and proffered aid were warmly responded to, greetings of real pleasure and interest taking place at University Station where a large number of the Committee met the incoming new men.

Information Bureau Gives Assistance

Curtis Crissman and J. R. Edwards operated a most efficient information bureau, securing permanent and temporary rooms for the men who came unprepared; locating rooms already engaged; and discovering lost suit cases and trunks. For three days the bureau kept the lobby of the building filled with seeking and satisfied, and piloted many of the new men through the difficulties of registration.

College Night

On the night of the first day of recitation a general meeting of all students was held by the Y. M. C. A. in Chapel where student leaders explained the varied forms of college activities, recommending that the new men take part in the literary societies, dramatic and glee clubs, journalism, athletics, campus and community religion. After this meeting the entire freshman class was invited to meet the faculty, young ladies of the town, and upper classmen at the library where R. C. Vaughan had prepared evergreens and refreshments.

Students Furnished Positions

Herman Jernigan arrived before college opened and had secured knowledge of all available positions for self-help students. A large number of places were filled and are continuing to be filled through his department. Daily calls for student help are being answered. Jernigan's department also keeps tab on what the careless lose and the honest find and thereby brings daily rejoicing to the losers of keys, books, jewelry, money, fountain pens, etc.

Bible Study Enrollment

The work of the Bible study department was auspiciously launched by Dr. O. E. Brown of Vanderbilt University, who delivered three addresses on "The Principles that Should Guide a Man in College Life," "Lining Up With Christian Forces," and "The Bible as a Factor in Preparation." Through an immediate follow-up campaign Merrill Parker and William Steele, as heads of the department, enrolled 280 men. Later canvassing placed the enrollment well over the 300 mark. Twenty-four groups meet every Sunday at 12:30 P. M. in the dormitories and out in town to study the Lives and Teachings of Christ and Paul. Rev. W. D. Moss and Mr. Edgar Turlington lead normal groups for the leaders during the week. Through these groups, movements are put through for campus uplift and betterment and for the maintenance of standards and ideals.

Weekly Meetings Held

The system of one regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. a week was continued by Robert House and he has had such speakers as Frank Graham, Rev. J. J. D. Hall, of Philadelphia, and Dr. W. S. Rankin of Raleigh, to speak to large audiences. Faculty and student leaders have held good meetings from week to week. Ex-secretary W. J. Bryan came to speak to the University community upon the invitation of the Y. M. C. A. on November 14th. Memorial Hall was filled twice to hear him.

Barnett Pays Visit

A big event of the year was the return of Eugene E. Barnett, two years general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. here and for the past five years general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Hanchow, China. He spoke to the students at Chapel Hill twice and to a packed house in Gerrard Hall. Those who had known him noted his marked increased power; those who met him paid high tribute to Carolina's representative on the foreign field. During his visit three students volunteered for the foreign field. Clai-bourne Royall has made a good start in raising the foreign fund which is used in the partial support of Barnett in his present work.

First Zone Activities

Early in September Ralph Stockton and Francis Bradshaw reorganized and continued the six Sunday schools conducted by the students in recent years. Although these schools are from two and one-half to four miles in the country, the enthusiasm of the leaders and thirty odd teachers is unfailing and a splendid service is being devotedly rendered.

Moonlight School Campaigns

It was through these schools that the moonlight schools were organized and launched on November 1, to run for one month. A call for volunteer teachers resulted in 110 responses. A principal was named for each school and a corps of teachers assigned to each. An attractive program on the first night brought out 330 of the rural folk and five schools were begun with an enrollment of 218. Among this number were sixteen illiterates. Courses were given in reading, writing, arithmetic, English, history, spelling and civil government. The schools were conducted three nights in the week with an average attendance of 160 per night. Twelve of the illiterates were taught to read and write and many more were taught to add, subtract and multiply. Over sixty students took some active part in the work. Lantern lectures were given at the schools on The Life of Christ, Tuberculosis, Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat.

The work of the schools was characterized by the unselfish enthusiasm and untiring interest of the students; the hearty response and sincere appreciation on the part of the rural folk, and the willing and generous co-operation on the part of the Community Club and townspeople in giving their time and automobiles to take the teachers to the schools.

The longer established and more permanent educational work of the Association is being done through Chairman W. B. Pitts in the Negro Night School, which, with an enrollment of sixty-six and a corps of twelve teachers meets five nights in the week. On Monday nights Cecil Rymer conducts an interesting debating society. The courses given are English, reading, writing, mathematics, spelling, and history.

Last Spring, after the Mott meetings, Marion Fowler extended his work among the mill people of Carrboro from a boy's club into a night school for every one. This year he has continued the work with an excellent organization, and a strong and efficient faculty of fifteen. The enrollment is seventy-five, the average attendance being fifty-five. The school is conducted five nights in the week and prepares for the High School. Two debating societies among the young men have aroused keen interest.

Evangelistic Campaign Planned

For the spring term, Mr. Francis Miller, of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., is to be here February 4th, 5th, and 6th, for an evangelistic campaign. Mr. Trawick and Dr. Weatherford, both of the International Committee, have also promised to visit the campus during the spring.

Financial Statement

On December 11th the receipts from the faculty, parents, alumni, the University, and the students amounted to $1,354.22 and the expenditures to $1,233.57. All payments are made by check, countersigned by the advisory treasurer, Mr. J. A. Warren, with vouchers on file for every cent. IN THE FIELD OF ATHLETICS

Representatives of the Faculty, Alumni, and Student Body Approve the Idea of a Director of Athletics and Alumni Coaching

Representatives from the University faculty, alumni, and students met at Chapel Hill on the night of December 18 in the English Conference Room for the purpose of discussing the future athletic policies of the University. While definite plans and names were informally talked over in connection with the football coaching for next year, it was not within the purpose or authority of the meeting to determine who the coach should be, but rather to lay plans for athletic development along large constructive lines. The selection of coaches rests with the Athletic Council, which is composed of Dr. C. S. Mangum, of the faculty; Mr. A. L. Cox, of the alumni; and Mr. C. T. Woollen, the graduate manager. A number of alumni who were unable to be present sent letters setting forth their views.

The meeting reached substantial agreement on the following policies: that alumni coaching be adopted as soon and as completely as alumni could be found able to take charge of the coaching; that a general director of athletics be secured, if possible, of the highest type in ability and personality, to have administrative charge of all athletics, and membership in the faculty; that under his leadership especial emphasis be laid on the general participation in athletics; and outdoor sports as an essential part of education be encouraged and facilities be provided for the whole student body to play games; that the highest standards of sportsmanship be steadily insisted on, not only in theory, but in every detail of practice; that the insistence of the faculty on creditable scholastic standards for athletes be endorsed, and the support of alumni urged in maintaining these standards at all times; that competent instruction be provided for every branch of sport, and that the development of high school athletics be encouraged by the alumni in co-operation with the alumni of other colleges, entirely apart from the consideration of where the students expect to attend college; and that the alumni may co-operate heartily and fully with authorities in putting these principles into full practice, future meetings such as this for consultation be called. The meeting also expressed its desire to promote progress in athletics in the State and section through co-operating in every possible way with other colleges, and encouraging confidence and friendliness in all athletic relations.

With this platform as a basis for future action, the Athletic Council, through the Graduate Manager, has taken up the question of schedule for 1916 and is now at work attempting to carry out the general program proposed. Announcements of an interesting nature may be expected at an early date.

Coach Trenchard Goes Into Business

After three years of service as head coach at the University, T. G. Trenchard goes to South Carolina February 1st to enter the real estate and lumber business. Coming to the University in 1913 immediately after Carolina had experienced the most disastrous season of her career, he resolutely set to work to rebuild the team and to put athletics, football especially, on a firmer basis. During his stay on the campus he has given himself unstintingly to the task, and although victory over Virginia has not been won, Carolina's football standing has steadily improved. The good wishes of the student body and alumni follow him in his new work.

Attend National Collegiate Athletic Association

Along with 157 other colleges and universities of the United States, Carolina was represented by Professors Howell and Patterson and Messrs. Wollen and F. P. Graham at the annual meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association which met at the Hotel Astor in New York on December 29. Dean L. R. Briggs, of Harvard, presided and stated the purpose of the meeting as being that of bettering intercollegiate athletics. The special topic which continued to come up for discussion was professionalism in intercollegiate baseball. Dr. C. H. Herty, of the faculty athletic committee, was appointed as a member of the third athletic district commission, which concerns itself with athletic problems within a half dozen southeastern and southern states.

Carolina to Meet Harvard

According to announcements made by the football managements of the University and Harvard, the White and Blue squad is to meet the wearers of the Crimson at Cambridge on October 14th, Carolina thereby having her first opportunity of meeting Harvard in a gridiron contest. Further announcement is also made that Princeton will be played early in the season if present plans work out satisfactorily.

The complete schedule for 1916 has not been announced, but Graduate Manager Woollen states that games have been arranged to date with Virginia, Harvard, Wake Forest, Georgia Tech, V. M. I., Princeton, and Davidson. Games with Richmond College and South Carolina are pending. V. M. I. and Wake Forest are to be played on the Hill and if South Carolina and Richmond College are scheduled they will be played on Emerson Field.

On account of the fact that the game with Harvard is scheduled for October 14, it will be impossible to have a home game on University Day. However, a special effort will be made to bring the alumni to the Hill for some of the games to be played here. The question of adequate railroad service for the games is now receiving consideration, and by September it is hoped that plans will be matured by which attendance at the games by large crowds can be made possible.

Basketball

By losing 22-27 to Wake Forest in Raleigh on January 15th, Carolina closed the pre-examination period of her basketball season. Previous to the Wake Forest game she had won from Elon and Statesville Y. M. C. A. and had broken even with Durham Y. M. C. A. in a two-game engagement. The schedule for the remainder of the season follows:

February 3, Maryville (Tenn.) at Chapel Hill.
 February 7, Virginia at Richmond.
 February 8, V. P. I. at Roanoke, Va.
 February 9, Roanoke College at Salem, Va.
 February 10, Randolph-Macon at Bedford, Va.
 February 11, Washington-Lee at Lexington, Va.
 February 12, Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Va.
 February 16, Davidson at Chapel Hill.
 February 19, Open.
 February 24, Guilford at Guilford.
 February 25, Statesville Y. M. C. A. at Statesville.
 February 25, Davidson at Statesville.
 March 1, Guilford at Chapel Hill.

Baseball Schedule

Carolina's baseball season, as announced by Manager Black, will begin on March 18th with Elon, and close with the Navy on April 29 at Annapolis. Between these two dates fourteen games have been provided and one or two dates still remain open. So far nine games have been scheduled for the Hill, the one with Virginia on April 3rd in all probability being the one reserved for the christening of Emerson Field.

The schedule follows:

March 18, Elon at Chapel Hill.
 March 24, W. Va. Wesleyan at Chapel Hill.
 March 25, Oak Ridge at Chapel Hill.
 March 29, Wake Forest at Chapel Hill.
 April 1, Virginia at Greensboro.
 April 3, Virginia at Chapel Hill.
 April 4, Richmond College at Chapel Hill.
 April 5, William and Mary at Chapel Hill.
 April 6 or 7, N. Y. Yankees at Chapel Hill.

April 18, Wake Forest at Rocky Mount.
 April 21, Penn. State at Chapel Hill.
 April 24, Davidson at Winston-Salem.
 April 25, Virginia at Charlottesville, Va.
 April 26, Catholic Univ. at Washington, D. C.
 April 27, Georgetown at Washington, D. C.
 April 28, Open.
 April 29, Navy at Annapolis, Md.

Track Outlook for 1916

The track schedule for this spring has been made public by Manager Frank Hackler. It consists of five meets, two of which will take place on the Hill. For the first time in four years Washington and Lee University will be met here. The date is April 22nd. This should be one of the best meets ever held in the State. Arrangements are being made to hold the State Meet on Emerson Field this spring. In addition to the schedule of meets mentioned here it is likely that a relay team will be sent to Washington on February 18th to enter in a race against the Carlisle Indian team.

The University track team has an unusual amount of good material this year. Among the letter men back are: Captain Patterson who runs the quarter mile; Smith, 220-yard dash; Johnson, 100 yards; Homewood, pole vaulter; Ramsey, shot putter; and Wright, who broke the State record in broad jump last year. Gannett, a University of Virginia letter man, is here this year also. Mr. C. T. Woollen states that a coach and general trainer will be secured as soon as possible.

The schedule is as follows:

April 8, Clemson College at Clemson College.
 April 15, Washington and Lee at Chapel Hill.
 April 22, V. P. I. at Blacksburg.
 April 24, V. M. I. at Lexington, (Pending).
 April 29, State Meet at Chapel Hill.
 May 1, S. I. A. A. at Richmond or Baltimore.

A. and M. Wins Cross Country Run

In the four-mile cross country run held here November 20th, A. and M. was victorious, winning by a margin of two points. Upchurch of Carolina finished first with a time of 22:15. Rand of Carolina came second, but Nimms was not able to finish better than eleventh. Goodson, Johnson and Capt. Millwee, all of A. and M., finished third, fourth, and fifth, respectively and thereby won the race. The Durham road was used as the course with the start and finish in front of the post office. The score was as follows: A. and M., 12; Carolina, 14; Trinity, 24; Wake Forest, 27.

This was the first State-wide race of the kind ever held in the State and all the teams present informed Manager Hackler of their desire to make the race an annual event.

ROBERT NEY McNEELY GOES DOWN WITH PERSIA

Involving the question of diplomatic relations between the United States and Austria-Hungary, the death of Robert Ney McNeely, Law '07, consul to Aden, as a result of the sinking of the Persia in Mediterranean waters on December 30, has become a matter of nation-wide interest and has brought to the heart of the University, of which he was a most worthy son, profound sorrow.

McNeely, who at the time of his death was enroute to Aden, Arabia, to which post he had been appointed by President Wilson last October, was born in Jackson township, in Union county, on November 11, 1883. In a family of eleven children, he was the third son. He received his early education at the College Hill and Waxhaw schools, and in 1905 he entered the University. After spending one year in the academic department, he began the study of law, winning the Shepherd Bryan prize for the best thesis in that subject in 1907. In the same year he received his license and began the practice of his profession at Monroe. In 1909 he represented his county in the lower house of the General Assembly, and in 1915 returned to the Legislature as a member of the Senate. His most distinctive service was the introduction and splendid work for a thorough-going State-wide primary law.

By the student body and his colleagues in the General Assembly he was held in high esteem and in his passing the University is bereft of a son in whose career there was every evidence of splendid promise.

HONORS AT GRADUATION

By a recent vote, the faculty has established two distinctions to be awarded at commencement. These distinctions are to be known as Honors and Highest Honors in the division or field chosen by the student for concentrated study. The purpose is to stimulate scholarship by giving a broader point of view than that attained by a man who merely passes off, no matter how creditably, a given number of courses. Students are to be encouraged to regard honors at graduation as the highest academic honor attainable. Unlike Phi Beta Kappa, the attainment of honors is not dependent upon high numerical grades alone, though no student will gain the distinction unless all his work is of high quality.

The chief feature of the plan consists in the transference in the case of brilliant students, of responsibility from the lecturer to the student; the emphasis is placed on the subject rather than on the course. Study groups are to be formed, conducted by students outside of class, where, in the society of older students in the same field and of members of the faculty, topics in literature, history, and science may be discussed with no suggestion of text book or lectures, and a relationship established between the great fields of study comprising the curriculum and the questions arising from the intensely dramatic and significant life of today. In this relationship between the college course and life, in the higher level of thought and conversation to be encouraged, and in the attempt to attain something like mastery of a field of thought instead of certain isolated courses, the new plan ought to prove, as President Graham remarks in his report, a "genuine stimulus to the intellectual life of the college."

The following details of administration may be noted. All courses, in the minor subjects as well as the major, must be passed with high credit. In connection with the regular courses, a considerable amount of outside reading is expected, or such other supplementary work as may be prescribed by the departments, in every case closely related to the general plan of study mapped out by the student. In this work students will have the guidance and assistance of special instructors, the object being to stimulate interest in reading not required as a part of the regular class work, for its culture value rather than for direct preparation for examinations. Near the close of the senior year a general final examination, oral or written or both, will be given. This examination will test the general knowledge of the candidate on the whole field of concentrated study, and will also test his proficiency in a special topic within the general field. The object of this examination, as of the prescriptions for parallel reading, is to secure better correlation of courses and relative mastery of the entire field. The entire plan thus seeks to adapt to local conditions certain admirable features of the English university system and of the Princeton system.

The administration of the Honors courses is to be vested in a Committee on Degrees with Distinction of which Professor Edwin Greenlaw is the chairman.

NINETY-THREE COUNTIES ENTER THE DEBATING UNION

Three hundred and twelve high schools in 93 counties of North Carolina have enrolled with Secretary E. R. Rankin for the approaching triangular debates of the High School Debating Union which will be held over the State on March 31st. This is the largest enrollment in the Union's history and a great State-wide debate is expected. The schools winning their two debates on March 31st will send their teams to Chapel Hill to compete on April 13th and 14th in the final contest for the Aycock Memorial Cup.

In preparation for the debates steady work is being done in the high schools by prospective debaters. This fact is evidenced by the many letters requesting material and other assistance which daily come to the Bureau of Extension. The query to be discussed is "Resolved, That the United States should adopt the policy of greatly enlarging its Navy." In order to aid the debaters, a 64 page bulletin on this subject was compiled and issued by the Bureau of Extension. Three thousand copies of this have been sent to the high schools.

Buncombe County leads the State with 13 schools enrolled. Robeson comes next with 12, and Guilford follows with 10. Alamance has 9 and Mecklenburg 8. Johnston, Nash and Wake have 7 each. Gaston, Iredell and Union have 6 each. Beaufort, Durham, Cleveland, Moore, Northampton, Orange, Rockingham, Rowan, Scotland, Vance, Warren and Wayne have 5 schools enrolled each. Alleghany, Bladen, Cabarrus, Chatham, Columbus, Duplin, Durham, Forsyth, Granville, Hyde, Richmond, Wilkes and Wilson follow with 4. Anson, Ashe, Caldwell, Carteret, Catawba, Davidson, Franklin, Gates, Halifax, Harnett, Lincolnton, Macon, McDowell, Montgomery, Pitt, Sampson, Surry and Washington have 3 each; Alexander, Bertie, Burke, Caswell, Cherokee, Craven, Dare, Edgecombe, Haywood, Henderson, Jackson, Lee, Martin, Onslow Person, Randolph, Stokes, Swain, Transylvania 2; and Camden, Chowan, Cumberland, Currituck, Davie, Greene, Hertford, Jones, Lenoir, Pender, New Hanover, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Polk, Rutherford, Stanley, Tyrrell, Yadkin, Yancey have one.

COMMISSION ON RACE PROBLEMS MEETS

The University Commission for the Study of Negro Problems in the South held its annual meeting at the University in the rooms of the North Carolina Club on January 5th. No formal program was presented, but the commission, together with members of the University faculty, discussed a number of interesting questions concerning the betterment of the Negro in the South. Those participating in the discussions were: Dr. James F. Dillard, University of Virginia; W. M. Hunley (secretary), V. M. I.; Dr. Morse, University of South Carolina; Dr. Pharr, University of Florida; Dr. De Loach, University of Georgia; Professor Scroggs, University of Louisiana; Prof. W. S. Sutton (chairman), University of Texas; Dean Haskins, University of Tennessee; Dr. D. Y. Thomas, University of Arkansas; Dean Doster, University of Alabama; Prof. E. C. Branson, University of North Carolina. Members of the faculty as follows also spoke informally before the Commission: Professors L. A. Williams, Chase, Hamilton, L. R. Wilson, Walker, Henderson, Noble and Stacy.

Y. M. C. A. TO HEAR FRANCIS MILLER

Mr. Francis Miller of New York City and a member of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. will be in Chapel Hill for a series of evangelistic meetings on Feb. 4th., 5th., and 6th. The meetings will be characterized by personal work more than by addresses to large audiences. There will, however, be two public meetings, one on Friday night the 4th, and one on Sunday night the 6th. All the students and the University community will be welcomed to these meetings.

The larger part of the evangelistic work will be in small group meetings in the dormitories, fraternities, and Y. M. C. A. rooms. Mr. O. B. Hinnant, of Wilmington, Boys work Secretary there, Mr. Roy John, General Secretary of the Clemson College Y. M. C. A., Mr. J. J. King, of the A. and M. Y. M. C. A., and Mr. W. G. Somerville, of Davidson, will be at the University with Mr. Miller.

RALEIGH WINS FOR THE THIRD TIME

The third annual football contest among the high schools of North Carolina resulted in the Raleigh high school team's winning the championship in the final game played with the Charlotte team at Chapel Hill on December 20th. The score was 6 to 0 in favor of Raleigh. This is the third consecutive time that the Raleigh team has won the State championship and the award of the loving cup. The Raleigh team was coached by G. B. Phillips, '13, teacher in the Raleigh high school, and the Charlotte team was coached by Marvin L. Ritch, '13, city attorney of Charlotte. A large number of schools took part in the contest this year and great interest was aroused over the State by it.

FACULTY ATTENDED MEETINGS DURING HOLIDAYS

The University was well represented at meetings of the learned societies of America during the Christmas holidays. Among the members who attended these various societies are the following:

Doctors Norman Foerster and H. M. Dargan attended a meeting of the Modern Language Association, in Cleveland, O., at which meeting Dr. Dargan presented a paper on "The Irony of Swift."

Dr. Geo. Howe was in Princeton, N. J., to attend a meeting of the American Philological Association.

Dr. W. D. McNider attended the meeting of the American Pharmacological Association, in Boston, Mass., where he presented a paper and was elected a member of the Council.

Dr. E. C. Branson attended, and took an active part in, the meeting of the Race Commission, which met once in Durham, and once in Chapel Hill.

Dr. W. C. Coker was in New York doing some private work in the Bronx Botanical Gardens.

Dr. J. G. deR. Hamilton was present at the meeting of the American Historical Association at Washington, D. C.

CAROLINA WINS FROM GEORGE WASHINGTON

In the inter-collegiate debate between the University of North Carolina and George Washington University held at Chapel Hill December 20th, Carolina was victorious, her representatives winning the unanimous decision of the judges. Carolina's debaters were: R. B. House and A. H. Wolfe; George Washington was represented by P. Bryan Morehouse and Charles W. Jacobson. President E. K. Graham presided over the debate and Oliver Rand acted as secretary. The judges were: Dr. T. P. Harrison, of A. and M. College, Dr. W. K. Boyd, of Trinity College, and Pres. W. A. Harper, of Elon College. This is the third debate held between Carolina and George Washington. Of the three debates, Carolina has won two and George Washington one. Another debate between the two institutions will be held in Washington, D. C. next fall.

PHI WINS SOPH-JUNIOR DEBATE

In the annual Soph-Junior debate, held on the night of December 16, the Philanthropic Society won the decision on the query: Resolved, That the United States should adopt some policy of compulsory military training for young men possessing the right to vote. The Phi, advocating the affirmative point of view, was represented by A. M. Coats, of Smithfield, and J. K. Holloway, of Raleigh, N. C. R. Edney, of Mars Hill, and C. B. Hyatt, of Boonville, represented the Di. Hugh Hester and R. L. Young were the officers of the debate, Dr. W. D. McNider and Messrs. R. H. Thornton and W. W. Pierson serving as judges.

LAW CLASS BANQUETS

On the night of December 16th forty-two students in the junior and senior law classes, together with their guests, held the annual banquet of the University Law School. Richard H. Shuford, of Hickory, was toastmaster and R. O. Everett, of Durham, was alumni speaker. Other addresses were made during the seven course dinner by Dean L. P. McGehee and Prof. A. C. McIntosh, of the Law School, Dean M. H. Stacy, of the University, and Z. V. Norman, D. L. Bell, and T. W. Ruffin, of the student body.

AT THE PAN-AMERICAN SCIENTIFIC CONGRESS

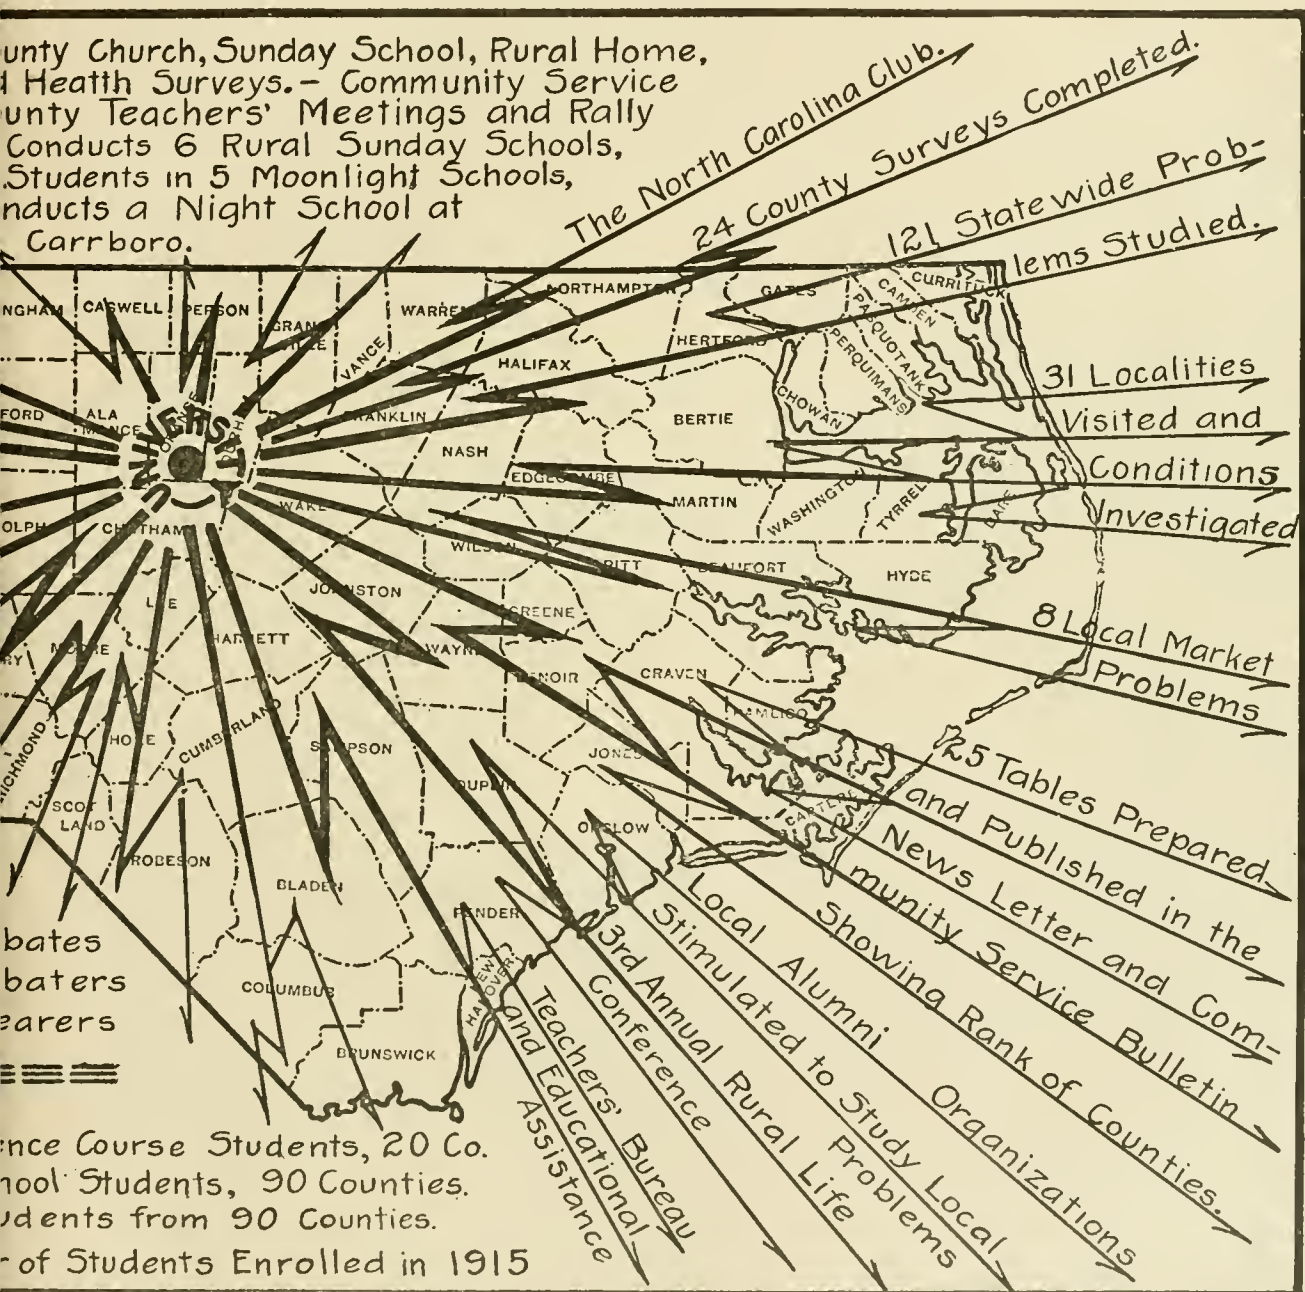

At the Pan-American Scientific Congress which met at Washington, D. C., December 27-January 7, and which was attended by more than 1100 delegates from the twenty-one American republics, the University was represented by President Graham and Drs. Raper and Herty. President Graham, together with Dr. Elmer E. Brown, spoke before the educational section of the Congress on "The Humanistic Side of University Extension work." Drs. Raper and Herty spoke respectively before the economic and chemical sections of the Congress.

The University was the only institution from the South Atlantic States represented in the Congress, and its participation in it was such as to call forth from the press of the country unusually high commendation.

At a recent meeting of industrial chemists, Dr. C. H. Herty was chosen to serve as chairman of the advisory committee which will have charge of the National Exposition of Chemical Industries to be held in New York City in 1916.

AMONG CAROLINA'S M. D'S.

News from Baltimore concerning the work of C. M. Byrnes, '02, instructor in clinical neurology at Johns Hopkins University, and the press notices relating to the researches of J. B. Murphy, of the Rockefeller Institute, in the investigation and treatment of cancer, afford new evidence of the fact that since 1900 Carolina has sent into the study of medicine an unusually large number of students who are rapidly emerging as specialists in their particular fields.

Dr. Byrnes captured the Worth prize in the University in his senior year, and a few years ago, while back on a visit to the Hill, turned aside from his medical investigations long enough to lecture to Professor Williams' class in "Philosophy 4." At that time he was a member of the medical faculty of the University of Virginia. In 1909 he returned to Johns Hopkins where he had received his degree in medicine and had served as demonstrator in anatomy during his medical course, to begin his brilliant work in neurology. He is a member of the leading scientific and medical societies of the country and a contributor to the best medical journals of the day.

Dr. J. B. Murphy's specialty has been the investigation of cancer. Recently at a meeting of the National Academy of Sciences held at the American Museum of Natural History in New York, Dr. Murphy reported on his work in this field. For some time he and his associates in the Rockefeller Institute have been experimenting upon rats from which cancers have been removed with the X-Ray and have tried to stimulate the growth of the white cells that originate in the spleen and float in the lymph. He has found that the treatment has resulted in making the subjects immune to the return of the growth.

Another Carolinian whose work in surgery is receiving marked attention is Dr. John A. Pemberton, formerly of Fayetteville, but for the past eighteen months with the Mayo Brothers, at Rochester, Min.

Dr. I. M. Boykin is with the American Ambulance Corps in Paris.

Dr. Paul A. Petree is chief resident at the Bryn Mawr Hospital, at Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Dr. N. F. Rodman has recently been appointed chief resident of the Presbyterian Hospital in Philadelphia.

Dr. J. Richard Allison is practicing at Hazelton, Pa.

Dr. J. F. Kendrick is physician for the Dare Lumber Company at Buffalo City, N. C.

Dr. W. P. Belk is resident physician at the Episcopal Hospital in Philadelphia.

Dr. Robert Drane is an instructor in the department of clinical medicine in the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Louis Hicks Williams recently stood the examinations given by the Examining Board for positions in the medical reserve corps of the Navy. He has the distinction of having made the highest grades recorded in the examination. He is now a member of the U. S. Naval Corps at Norfolk, Va.

MR. ALFRED NOYES READS

Mr. Alfred Noyes, so happily remembered for his former reading here more than a year ago, repeated that success with a program if anything more versatile. The robustness of his form, the enthusiasm of his personality, and infectious simplicity of his reading are singularly attractive and winning. The poem, which gives the title to his new volume, The Lord of Misrule, marked the high pitch of the evening's performance; but the finely-keyed "Song of Sherwood" and the radiant melodrama of "The Highwaymen" won equal favor. But it is unnecessary to single individual poems and individual excellencies. Mr. Noyes lived up to his reputation, fully—which is no mean achievement.

PROFESSOR BENJAMIN F. SLEDD THE UNIVERSITY'S GUEST

On the evening of November 30th, Professor Slodd, head of the Department of English of Wake Forest College, lectured in Gerrard Hall on "Impressions Abroad in War Times." For well nigh an hour and a half he held the undivided attention of the audience—with his narration of personal experiences, impressive word-painting of historic and literary shrines, acute observations on the temper and spirit of the nations at war, incisive comments on affairs and events, amusing anecdotes effectively told. So full with interesting matter was the lecture that it would be only unfair to attempt to resume it here.

Suffice it to say that he brought certain ideas and impressions back from Europe, which were almost startling in their divergence from the "truths" which have already become stereotyped in popular consciousness. A particularly interesting feature of the evening was the reading of his own notable poem, "A Virginian in Surrey," which appeared in the London Times and brought him many attentions during his sojourn in England. The program was concluded with the reading of a fragment from his report to Kahn Foundation, under whose auspices he made his European tour.

LECTURE DATES TO REMEMBER

Alumni will do well to remember the following University lecture engagements:

The McNair Lectures, March 3, 4, and 5, by Frederick J. E. Woodbridge, Dean of the Graduate School of Columbia University.

Weil Lectures on American Citizenship, March 29, 30, and 31, by George Brinton McClelland, former Mayor of New York.

Lectures on Art and Literature, April 19, 20, and 21, by Bliss Perry, Lowell Professor of Literature at Harvard University.

MR. A. E. LOEW TO LECTURE

Mr. A. E. Loew, lecturer at Oxford University, now in this country on leave of absence, will lecture before the Philological Club and advanced students in the various language departments on the evenings of January 27, 28, 29. The first lecture will concern itself with a recently discovered manuscript of Pliny the Younger, and will form the program of the January meeting of the Club. The titles of the other lectures are: "Ancient Book-making," and "How the Classics Came Down to us." They will be illustrated with lantern slides.

DR. HERTY IS RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT

Dr. Charles Holmes Herty, head of the department of chemistry in the University, was notified during the holidays of his re-election as president of the American Chemical Society for the coming year.

This is an unusually high honor as it is not the policy of the society to re-elect its presidents.

Presidents of the American Chemical Society are nominated by the balloting of the 7,500 members of the society. The names of the four receiving the highest number of votes are then submitted to the council of the society, which consists of 108 members. The council chooses the president from these four leading candidates.

Doctor Herty's policy during the past year has been devoted to the development of national self-containedness in the chemical industry.

STARS AND LETTERS AWARDED

The following members of the football squad received stars or letters at a meeting of the Athletic Council in December: Stars—Parker, Reid, Dave Tayloe, Tandy, Cowell, F. Jones, Homewood, Ramsay, and Wright; Letters—Grimes, Boshamer, MacDonald, Hines, J. Tayloe, and Love. All recipients of stars or letters were given sweaters.

BOOK EXCHANGE DISTRIBUTES EARNINGS

Through the Book Exchange established by the University in September a refund of $538.58 was made to the students during the fall. This represented a ten per cent rebate on the total business—$5,385.82—done by Exchange. The Y. M. C. A. also sold $450 worth of books for the students on a 5 per cent commission basis.

Extension lectures have been delivered recently by members of the University faculty as follows: E. C. Branson, local chapter of U. D. C., Goldsboro, Jan. 19th; J. M. Booker, woman's club of Louisburg, Jan. 17th; Collier Cobb, woman's club of Henderson, Jan. 14th. E. A. Harrington will speak before the woman's club of Henderson, Jan. 28th.

Dr. C. L. Raper has recently been chosen chairman of a permanent committee on Tax Education appointed by the Conference for Education and Industry in the South.

Prof. E. C. Branson and Dr. L. A. Williams were contributors to the January number of the Educational Monthly, published at Athens, Ga.

The Tar Heel for December 16, appeared as a Y. M. C. A. special. It set forth in a very comprehensive way the activities of that organization.

Professor Collier Cobb spent three days during November at Boone assisting in laying out the plan for future buildings on the campus of the Appalachian Training School.

ALUMNI MEETINGS

THE REVIEW is glad to record accounts of the meetings which were held by alumni and students in various localities during the holidays. The idea of holding meetings at Christmas time is growing in popular favor among Carolina men, and deservedly so.

BURLINGTON

The Alamance County alumni and students of the University held an excellent banquet on the evening of December 27th at the Piedmont Hotel, Burlington. The attendance was 51, this including a number of ladies who were present as guests.

W. H. Carroll, president of the County Alumni Association, was toastmaster. The principal speakers were: Dr. D. A. Long, former president of Antioch College, Ohio, and Union Christian College, Indiana, who spoke on the "Old University"; I. C. Moser, who advocated the establishment of a loan fund for Alamance boys; D. L. Bell, who spoke on the "Present University"; Roy Homewood, president of the Alamance County Club of the University; E. S. W. Dameron; Dr. Will Long; J. W. Lasley, Jr.; Joe G. Walker. The banquet was such an enjoyable affair that it was voted to have one during the holidays each year.

GASTONIA

The sixth annual joint banquet of the Gaston County Alumni Association and the Gaston County Club of the University which was held at the Armington Hotel, Gastonia, on the evening of December 27th, proved to be the most enthusiastic gathering of Carolina men ever held in the county. The occasion was a delightful one in every respect. The attendance was 51, this consisting of alumni, students, and prospective students who are at present seniors in the County high schools.

Geo. B. Mason was toastmaster and Rev. W. A. Jenkins made the invocation. Speeches were made by A. G. Mangum, lawyer and University trustee; Jno. G. Carpenter, lawyer and former State Senator; A. E. Voltz, of the local bar, formerly bursar of the University; Rev. W. A. Jenkins, Methodist minister of Dallas; W. W. Rankin, of the University faculty; J. W. Atkins, editor of the Gastonia Gazette; Ray Armstrong; Dr. T. C. Quickel; Supt. J. S. Wray; Carl Carpenter; J. Robert Craig; R. C. Patrick; F. S. Wetzell; Alex McLean; Lester Sipe; A. C. Lineberger, Jr.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were: President, J. S. Wray; Vice-President, F. S. Wetzell; Secretary-Treasurer, E. R. Rankin. The association unanimously went on record as favoring the adoption of the Alumni Loyalty Fund.

GOLDSBORO

The Wayne County Alumni Association and the Wayne County Club of the University held their annual banquet at Goldsboro on the evening of December 28th. Toastmaster Thomas O'Berry called the gathering to order and asked Rev. N. H. D. Wilson to invoke Divine blessings upon the gathering.

For the alumni W. A. Dees was principal speaker. For the students G. C. Royall, Jr., M. E. Robinson, Jr., and W. R. Allen spoke. The speeches were all interesting and dwelt mostly on matters of alumni and student co-operation in the University's work. A number of high school seniors from the county schools were present as guests. They expressed themselves as well pleased and stated that they would be at the banquet as University students next year. The Wayne County banquet was up to its usual high standard.

KINSTON

The Lenoir County Alumni Association held its annual banquet on the evening of December 30th in the hall of Hollywood Camp, Woodmen of the World, Kinston. Hon. H. E. Shaw, solicitor of the judicial district, presided as toastmaster. The principal address was made by Prof. M. C. S. Noble, of the University faculty. He outlined very interestingly the work and ambitions of the University, and also touched on the needs of the University in its plans for development. Brief talks were made by E. B. Lewis, Felix Harvey, Clyde Dunn, G. V. Cowper, Jno. Dawson, Dr. W. T. Parrott, and McDaniel Lewis. Dr. Ira M. Hardy is president of the Association.

LENOIR

The Caldwell County Alumni Association, members and guests sixty strong, gathered at the Hotel Martin, Lenoir, on the evening of December 31st to do honor to their Alma Mater. This was their first banquet and it was carried through in magnificent style. That it will have its counterpart during holiday seasons of succeeding years goes without saying.

James T. Pritchett was toastmaster for the occasion. The speakers were: J. G. Abernethy, president of the Alumni Association; Capt. Edmund Jones, who left the University in '63 to join Lee's army; Overton Dysart, a Carolina senior; Dr. L. A. Williams, of the University faculty; Horace Sisk, superintendent of Lenoir's schools; Dr. A. A. Kent, physician and legislator; and T. E. Story, principal of the Oak Hill high school. The banquet was a splendid success in every way. It has forwarded the University's work in Caldwell County greatly.

NEW BERN

The Craven County alumni and students held a smoker at New Bern on the evening of December 30th. Wm. Dunn, Jr., of the local bar, presided over the meeting. Dr. Louis R. Wilson of the University faculty was the principal speaker. The gathering partook in the main of the nature of a general conference relative to University matters and methods of alumni co-operation. Among those participating in the discussions were: Dr. J. F. Rhem, quarterback on the first University football team, C. D. Bradham, D. E. Henderson, Harold Whitehurst, S. H. Basnight, and Parkhill Jarvis. Both the Craven County Alumni Association and the Craven County Club have large memberships.

SELMA

A joint banquet of the Johnston County Alumni Association and the Johnston County Club of the University was held at the Wyoming Hotel, Selma, on the evening of December 29th. H. G. Hudson, president of the Club, was toastmaster for the occasion. The speakers from the alumni were J. D. Parker, of Smithfield, and Fred Archer, of Selma. For the students the speakers were A. M. Coats and Oliver Rand. The banquet was entirely successful and was the means for arousing a greater interest in the University's work among the Johnston County alumni and students. A committee was appointed to perfect a more active organization for the alumni, and it was voted to hold similar banquets annually.
